1

Copying is the default

- Another restaurant. Another payments app. Another "Uber for X".
- It feels safe because it's proven. That's also why everyone else is doing it.

2

The contrarian question

- Thiel asks founders: what important truth do very few people agree with you on?
- A good answer isn't "everyone is wrong". It's a specific truth you can build on.

Secrets still exist

- Most people assume everything worth knowing is already known.
- Thiel disagrees: there are still hidden truths about what people need and how things work.

Where to look for them

- Problems people complain about but have accepted.
- Things experts call impossible. Markets big companies ignore because they look too small.

Try it on Nigeria

- 1 to n: another fintech app with the same features as ten others.
- 0 to 1: solving a problem nobody has solved here yet, in a way that works here.
